Process Improvement: Practice Makes Better

By

Carrie Cordero, MHA, RHIA

Carrie Cordero began her career as a CNA at a skilled nursing facility in 1998 and soon began working in the Medical Records Department. Her manager at the time inspired Carrie to pursue a career in HIM and shortly thereafter Carrie started studying in the HIM program at Tacoma Community College. Shortly after graduating Carrie started working as a Coder for Saint Joseph Medical Center and continued to challenge herself in the way of education and career growth. While pursuing a Bachelor's Degree in Health Information Administration through the University of Cincinnati she worked as a Utilization Management Specialist with the Franciscan Health System and went on to earn her Masters in Healthcare Administration through the University of Washington in 2013. She has been employed as a Process Improvement Consultant for the CHI Franciscan Health System for the past two years and recently joined the faculty at Tacoma Community College as an Adjunct Instructor.
